Green Gifts

Want to give gifts that your friends and family will love while still caring about the environment? Giving green gifts is about choosing sustainable products and going beyond that. There are lots of ways to give gifts that can help your friends be more environmentally conscious or that don't require buying any items at all.

Come by our workshop and listen to people that are in touch with ideas that meet both of the above. Sherry will share her experience with One Green Street regarding gifts that "do no harm", and Carol has been a student of zero-waste and contributing her time in the faith-based sector with many ideas to share as well. We will also have some DIY ideas and samples to inspire you.
